

For the EFT Practitioner "Communication Styles"

Dr. Lees is an EFT Expert and a Certified International NLP Trainer. He has conducted over 5,000 one-on-one EFT sessions and is the author of "EFT - What is it and how does it work?" and co-author of "Freedom at your Fingertips."

Dr. Alexander R. Lees

Learning to identify a person's communication styles will provide you with some clues to your own mental programming, thinking styles and behaviour traits, as well as those of your clients. This new knowledge and understanding will enable you to help your clients even more effectively, and is a powerful way to achieve success with your EFT sessions!

What this workshop is all about:

Learning how to observe and inter-react with your clients, so you can help them.

The better you, as the practitioner are at communicating with your clients and understanding what they are telling you, the greater success you will have in helping them!

Learning some NLP offers a way for people to begin to understand their communication and motivation styles, and how these 'invisible' characteristics affect their lives. You can easily learn to identify any person's communication style because these characteristics show up in the language people use. Once you have identified the various behaviours and thinking styles, you are able to help the person with elegance and ease.

"Excellent marriage between NLP & EFT. I would like a longer program. Enjoyed completely!"

"EFT is the most effective tool I've ever come across for removing an emotional issue, bar none. Where NLP is so valuable, is that it best equips you to gather information from the client, determine the emotional issue you are dealing with, and know the precise moment in which to begin tapping. To me, that's the definition of synergy."
